David, could you be a little more specific?

sure !

I think we should break it up into three galleries; interface, website and videos.

The ideal scenario is that the Gallery page has three divisions (columns ? rows ?) and that the latest (5 ? 6 ?) images are represented as thumbnails. click on image, to go to image, click on heading to go to Gallery sub-page. Each gallery subpage should present all images as clickable thumbnails, except maybe the videos, which should be embedded.
